California's prison realignment program has placed more responsibility and authority into the hands of local sheriffs. Sandra Hutchens is the 12th Orange County Sheriff and the first woman to serve as the county's top cop. She was named Sheriff by the Board of Supervisors in 2008 after a nationwide search which included a field of 48 candidates. She was elected to a full term in June 2010.

A Southern California native, Sheriff Hutchens was raised in Long Beach, and worked for the Los Angeles County Sheriff Department where she graduated from the Academy in 1978. Her 30 year career includes counterterrorism training in Israel, FBI National Academy training, participation in the National Preparedness Leadership Initiative Program at Harvard University, and a Bachelor of Science degree in Public Administration from the University of La Verne. Our programs this year have focused on criminal justice reform. Come hear the most important local official in implementing prison and justice reform measures.
